Diversity Resources on College Campuses

A sense of "belongingness" is integral to a student's well being and success in college. It is also essential to a student's ability to reach his/her full potential and to a student's retention and graduation. Therefore, providing a sense of belongingness to all students, particularly underrepresented or marginalized students, is an institution's, particularly a Predominantly White Institution's obligation and responsibility.

To learn more about what your college offers to underrepresented or marginalized students, please answer the following questions and include links to resources when possible.

Thank you!

Institution Name *

Manchester University

Name of person completing this form. *

Blake Moore

Email of person completing this form. *

BAMoore@manchester.edu

What admissions policies (test optional, need blind, etc.) does your institution offer that are welcoming to underrepresented or marginalized student populations? *

Test optional

What special scholarships/scholars programs does your institution offer to underrepresented or marginalized students? *

Multicultural Excellence in Leadership Scholarship (1 Full-Ride Scholarship, 5 Runner-up Awards)

What kinds of spaces to build community does your institution have for underrepresented or marginalized students? *

Jean Childs Young Intercultural Center and the Office of Multicultural Affairs

Is there anything else your institution offers underrepresented or marginalized students that hasn't been mentioned above? If so, please list here.

This form was created inside of Brebeuf Jesuit Preparatory School.

Google Forms